FINANCE MINISTER PUTS RESOLUTION ON COMMONS ORDER PAPER

IS FIRST MEASURE

OTTAWA.—Resolution to enable the government to take over control of the Bank of Canada appeared on Saturday's commons order paper sponsored by Finance Minister Duggan.

The resolution indicated control would be obtained by increasing the capital stock rather than by buying shares already in the hands of private investors.

The bank opened its doors a year ago after 100,000 shares of its capital stock had been sold to the public at a par value of $50 a share.

For the government to secure control it would be necessary to increase the capital stock to above 200,000 shares.

The finance minister will ask the house to declare

"That it is expedient to bring in a measure to amend the Bank of Canada act so as to increase the capital stock of the bank, to provide that certain shares thereof shall be purchased by the minister of finance in order to assure ownership of a majority of the shares by the government, to increase the number of directors, and to provide for election and appointment of directors in such manner as to assure voting control of the board of directors appointed by the government."

Resolution with form the basis for a bill embodying its provisions to be introduced after the house has approved the first step.

Mrs. R. A. Archibald and her mother, Mrs. McC. Fraser, arrived from California on their way to Picton County, N.S., and are spending a few days visiting at the home of their brother and son, Mr. J. W. Fraser.

Miss Anabelle Davis is on the sick list this week.

W. I. HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The W.I. met at the home of Mrs. W. Bruce on Tuesday, March 10th, with thirteen members and one visitor present.

The meeting opened with a song and the women's Creed. The Irish jokes answering the roll call, were much enjoyed. After the usual business, Mrs. Greer gave a paper on Home Handicrafts. Following a nice lunch served by Mrs. Brunker and Mrs. Simmona, an amusing article "A Toast to the Bride," was read, which caused much merriment, as it recalled the way we used to dress twenty years ago. The bride of today has many more conveniences.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. W. Carle's on April 14th, the roll call to be answered by a song or recitation. Mrs. Greer is still waiting to hear from 'teen age girls re the Girls' Club.

Horace Roden Steves, 27 years of age, who came to the district about a year ago, was found dead about two miles east of town on the C.N.R. railway, by some section men, this day morning, where he had committed suicide. He shot himself through the head with a 22 rifle, which he had purchased the day previous in town.

Steves had been employed by Jim McKay for some time. On the Saturday previous to his death Mr. McKay had laid a charge of assault against him and he was brought to town and tried, being let out on a suspended sentence, with the understanding that he was going to leave town and take a job which he had formerly held.

Before coming to town Steves resided at Hillsboro, New Brunswick, his father still residing at that point. He will be buried in the Wainwright cemetery, March 18th. McLeod's parlors making the arrangements.

It is understood that the deceased left all his personal belongings to his recent employer.

Although a short distance from Wainwright, Jimmy Guthrie had to spend the week-end in Hughenden. He faced the alternative of going to Edmonton and coming here via the C.N.R. and then retracing his steps Monday morning. What a difference a road opened north and south would make! (Contributed).

B.C. MAN WINNER OF MCKEE TROPHY

W. M. Archibald, who conducts a school at Kalso, B.C., has been awarded the J. Daisell McKee trophy for 1935. Defence Minister Mackenzie announced Friday. The trophy is awarded to the individual who, in the opinion of the committee of award, makes the most valuable contribution to flying during the year.

Master Codes to be Effective April 1st

LICENSING FEE WILL NOT EXCEED $2; ADDITIONAL FEES $1 EACH

Fixing of both maximum and minimum prices are provided for in the general master code, binding upon all classes of retail trade in Alberta, which has been approved by the provincial government under the Trade and Industry act and was released Friday by Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry. It is to take effect April 1 next.

The minister stated that regulations under the code will provide for a licensing fee of not more than $2, with $1 for each additional license. No additional license will be required in a community where there are only general stores, regardless of the lines of merchandise handled, the minister said. A general store license will cover all classifications of merchandise.

"Our main interest is to increase the price of products to the producer," said Mr. Manning.

HOSPITAL BOARD MEET; ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

"WINGS IN THE DARK" A ROMANTIC DRAMA

Here is a story packed full of human interest. It is an aviation story but one with a different sort of thrill from what you've been used to. The show is based on a tender love story that is more devotional than ardent, and tingling with humor and comedy.

The plot is a simple one. Ken Gordon is a flyer trying to perfect instruments for safe flying in the dark or a fog. Sheila Mason, barnstorming sky-writing artist, managed by Nick Williams, falls in love with him but her affection is just received. At the moment when triumph for his devices seems just ahead, Gordon is blinded by a gas explosion.

Gordon retires to the country accompanied by his faithful mechanic, Mac, and gets a police dog to look him around. Here he tries his luck as a writer but receives only rejection slips. Driven to the depths of despair when his plane is confiscated for lack of payments, he learns that Sheila has attempted a hop from Moscow to New York. Then comes the big thrill. She gets as far as Newfoundland and is engulfed in a fog and her life is endangered. Gordon at last realizes how much he really cares for her. . . .

This is a different sort of picture that everyone will enjoy. It shows at the Elite on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 19th, 20th and 21st.

11,670 ALBERTA DRIVERS LICENSED IN YEAR 1935

Driver's licenses issued in this province during 1935 reached a total of 11,670, according to the annual report of the Provincial Secretary which was tabled recently in the legislature.

During the year 87 were suspended for various reasons and two cancelled.

There were 60 convictions of persons for not having a license in their possession and not being able to produce it upon demand.

Last year 51 drivers' licenses were suspended under the financial responsibility provisions of the Act.

The number of suspensions in effect at December 31, 1935, under the financial responsibility provisions of the Act.

The number of suspensions in effect at December 31, 1935, under the financial responsibility provisions were 175.

During last year there were 3635 chauffeurs' licenses issued and one suspended, while two were suspended under the financial responsibility provisions of the Act.

Last year 76,562 pleasure cars were licensed in this province, compared with 73,114 for the previous year.

Truck licenses numbered 16,353, also a gain over the 15,383 the year previous. There were 480 motor cycle licenses taken out, compared with 469 the year before, and 320 livery licenses, a decrease of 10.

Licenses of pleasure cars and for trucks for the four largest cities in the province, in order given, were as follows: Calgary 11,435, 1575; Edmonton, 9808, 1553; Lethbridge, 1663, 833; Medicine Hat, 1091, 183.

In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1936, the province collected $2,706,442 from the fuel oil or gasoline tax. Refunds however amounted to $968,606, representing 42,785 claims, leaving net revenue less refunds and commissions at $1,948,655, compared with $1,722,784 the year before.

Need Petition of Two-Thirds in Recall Bill

83.7 PER CENT OF THOSE WHO VOTED WOULD BE NECESSARY

At least two-thirds of all voters on the total electoral list in any constituency must sign a petition to recall the legislature member representing that constituency before the member can be unseated under the terms of the Alberta government's new recall bill, introduced in the legislature by Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary.

On the basis of returns for the province at large in last August's elections, when approximately 80 per cent of the voters cast ballots, 83.7 per cent of those who actually voted then would have to sign the 1/3 petition in the average riding, to unseat a present member.

Only 55 per cent of the ballots cast last August were for Social Credit candidates. Therefore, to unseat the average member of the house as it is now constituted, the recall petition in that member's riding would have to include a large number of Social Credit-ers names and would have to total, in some ridings, more than double the number of other names represented by those who voted for the member last August.

RELIEF CAMPS COST DOMINION OVER $8,000,000

Total cost of operating relief camps for unemployed men by the department of national defence during 1935 was $8,084,069, a return tabled in the commons last week showed. During the year, 76,082 men were cared for in the camps, average length of residence being 97 days. During the previous year, 83,307 men were cared for in the camps and the total cost was $7,462,280.

Other officers elected by grand lodge were: P. C. Haynes, Hallik; C. A. Davies, Calgary; A. Balentine, Calgary; G. W. Henderson, Calgary; M. S. Saunders, past grand master, will represent Alberta at Sovereign grand lodge meeting in New York.

In the Rebekah assembly in Calgary this week, Mrs. T. M. McCallum, of Beaver Rebekah lodge, Edmonton was elected Grand President, an honor attained by her simultaneously with that reached by her husband in the grand lodge.

T. McCallum Heads Alberta I.O.O.F.

Thomas M. McCallum, past grand of Friendship lodge No. 7, Edmonton, was elected grand master of the grand lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Alberta at the annual session in Ft. Calgary on Friday. The new head of the Alberta Odd Fellows has long been an active member of Friendship lodge and in annual assemblies of the grand lodge has been a keen and active worker.

Springbett and Coursier Win Two Main Events in Mixed 'Spiel; 40 Rinks Entered

Crowds thronged to the curling rink during the past week to both play and watch their favorite rinks advance out to the finals, or otherwise. A great deal of interest was displayed, which was proven when no less than forty rinks entered making a total of 160 players. The making during the past week has been running a close race with the ice-makers, but with a few degrees of frost each evening, the ice has held up very well. The two main events, the Grand Challenge and the Grand Challenge, finished up Monday night last, with Springbett beating out Stuart in the Grand Challenge and Coursier defeating Schlitt in the Grand event. It looks like the finalists have more in common than dentists teeth.

In the Springbett-Stuart game the winner was not decided until the last rock was thrown by Doc, and created quite a lot of excitement in the gallery. After Stuart counted the first end Springbett took control of the chalk and at the sixth end held quite an impressive lead, 9-3; but Stuart gradually climbed up and at one end was the leading citizen. When they entered the coming-home end Springbett held a one point margin, but Bill had last rock and used it to tie up the score with a nice draw shot, making an extra end necessary. This end saw both skips making good use of the well-known rabbit's foot on a few shots. When fifteen of the sixteen rocks had been thrown Stuart had a nice end piled up, but Doc having one rock left to throw, drew in for shot, within a few inches of the button, winning the game 12-13.

The two rinks were made up as follows: Margaret Fish, lead; George Clark, second; Mrs. O. Murray, third.

and Dr. E. V. Springbett, skip. Marion Lane, lead; Phil Stuart, second; Mrs. Thorson, third, and Bill Stuart, skip.

The final in the Briar event between Coursier and Schlitt was a rather one-sided affair, Coursier having control most of the way, Schlitt only getting use of the chalk on three ends. The final score read 15-5.

These two rinks were made up as follows: Mrs. Street, lead; Russell Gaudin, second; Mrs. Stuart, third; Dr. Coursier, skip. Mrs. Gaudin, lead; W. Tamsley, second; Mrs. Reeves, third; Mr. H. P. Schlitt, skip.

A third competition is being run off for those who were knocked out of the two main events but will not be completed for a few days yet, providing the weather holds out.

Below is the draw for the Grand Challenge—Briar draw on page 5.

Earl Beatty Succumbs To Illness at 65 yrs.

Earl Beatty, former Admiral of the Fleet, died last Tuesday night, March 10th. He had been ill for several weeks. He was 65 years old.

Death came to the war-time naval hero at the London home where he had been under treatment.

His son, Viscount Borodale, and a doctor and nurse were at his bedside.

Beatty's condition became serious after he attended the funeral of the late King George.

The Admiral predicted his death last November after he had left a sickbed to attend the funeral of Earl Jellicoe.

"So Jellicoe is gone," he said then. "I feel that I'll be the next to be summoned. I don't think the call will be long. I'm tired, very tired."

INCUBATION

A great many of the difficulties inherent in artificial incubation have been overcome to a large extent in recent years through improvement in the incubator. Not only are incubators now built which are well insulated and hence capable of maintaining very constant temperature but equipment for humidification has also been improved to the extent that lack of moisture in the air, with consequent too heavy evaporation from the egg, is rarely the case. In general, hatches have improved as a result of these developments.

This improvement in equipment, however, does not excuse haphazard methods in incubation and will in no measure make up for faults in the raw material, incubation, the egg. It is an axiom that the breeding stock must be vigorous, healthy and well nourished in order that good hatchability can be obtained and no amount of care in the handling of incubators will overcome the handicap which poor breeding stock places upon fertility and hatchability. Having satisfied this essential first step in incubation is the selection of suitable eggs. Since egg size is a definitely inherited characteristic and real progress in improvement in egg size can be made by selection it is obvious that only eggs of good size should be set if the flock is to be maintained as one capable of producing eggs of satisfactory size. Eggs which have been cracked even slightly have practically no chance of hatching and may be picked out by banding. Eggs with rough, pock shells or with definite checks as seen under the candle light will usually evaporate their moisture too rapidly and hence give little satisfaction in hatching. Mishapen eggs are apt to be poor particularly in shell structure, and their use should be avoided.

In the handling of the machine itself, temperature and humidity are particularly important. The latest reliable research indicates a temperature of 98 degrees F. to be most satisfactory throughout the whole incubation period. Slightly better results are obtained, however, if the temperature is lowered to about 95 degrees F. during the last six to ten days. A relative humidity of 60 per cent should be maintained throughout. The recommendations are, of course, subject to variation where specific instructions for other temperatures based upon the performance of any particular machine are recommended by the manufacturers although in general they apply.

While the value of turning of eggs during the incubation period is not entirely known research just published indicates that within reasonable limits too much turning cannot be done. It is advisable to turn often and to rotate about the long or short axis of the egg from side to side, that is not turning constantly in the same direction. If this is done gently and often, better hatches should result.

One further point should be particularly noted, namely, that when taking out the hatch any chicks which are late in hatching or which do not appear to be entirely vigorous should not be raised, as experience has indicated that such chicks rarely develop normally and usually die off at some time during the rearing period or at the best make unthrifty and poor producers.

THE COLDEST WINTERS

February, 1936, established new low record temperatures in the prairie provinces of Canada. Naturally this has been a subject of frequent comment and many inquiries have been made for such records. The lowest temperature recorded at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, was 59 degrees below zero on the morning of February 15th.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D., F.R.C.P.

INTESTINAL FLU

As if the hydra-headed monster, influenza, were not terrible enough in its easily-recognizable forms, humanity must, it seems, be harassed by that obscure, baffling demon, for which medical science has offered no better name than "intestinal flu."

A very distressing weakness is characteristic of Spanish influenza. It is distinctly a respiratory disease, caused by germs which take lodging in the breathing passages, hence we find sneezing, coughing and general irritability, along with exceptionally high temperature in most cases. I have rarely seen cases with low temperature. The disease is not difficult to diagnose at the first call.

But the "intestinal" thing is a different proposition. The victim, always in a run-down condition, begins with a chilly, creeping feeling of considerable intensity, which lasts for a day or more, before long being compelled to seek his bed. No matter what treatment his best friend the physician applies, the temperature will mount to 104 or 105, about the third day. There is no cough or other symptom referable to the lung or breathing passages. No point of infection can be made out by physical methods. A blood test of 105 is a phenomenon that I had much rather not see.

My motive in this article is to warn my readers at this season to take the best possible care of themselves. It is the only method I can suggest of avoiding attacks. Do not overload the stomach; keep the digestive tract clear and free; drink plenty of water; eat good nourishing food, but not to excess. Keep the surface of the body comfortable. Avoid crowds. Alkaline mineral waters are very useful. Do not worry. Do not exhaust the body. Immediate vaccines are worth while too and I am sure your physician is your friend.

THE WOMAN'S ANGLE

By NANCY HART

Mrs. Huey P. Long, the third woman member of the United States Senate, by her appointment to fill the unexpired term of her late husband, is now a news headline in her own right. The late Senator was a door-bell ringer selling a cottonseed oil, she entered a baking contest sponsored by the shortening company and her "Bride's Loaf Cake" won both the ten dollar prize and the Senator. This is the recipe which she credits with leading her late husband to her door and into matrimony.

Mrs. Long's Cake: One and three-quarters cups of sugar, two-thirds of a cup of shortening, one cup milk, three cups flour, seven eggs whites, two teaspoons of extract. Cream the shortening, add the sugar and cream together, add the dry ingredients and the milk, alternately. Fold in the egg whites, then add the extract. Bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Old Clothes Heaven: Have you ever wondered about the fate of the millions of old suits, dresses, stockings, hats, and other articles of wearing apparel that are discarded by their owners each year? Of course, many of them are re-sold by the second hand clothes shops and for the cheap export trade to the natives in Africa. But countless garments are too worn and shabby for further use in this way. They are little more than rags. But even rags are in demand.

Linens and cotton garments are the most valuable and are sold to the mills for re-making into cloth or into fine papers. Artificial silk stockings are sorted, processed and re-woven into new. Felt from old hats can also be reclaimed and used again. Old suits are cleaned, disinfected and torn into shreds by machinery, then re-woven. The coarse scraps of disintegrated cloth can be used in the manufacture of upholstery and bedding.

Here's a tip for the flower gardener: In March, assure flowers or vegetable weeds ahead of their plants which are grown in the ordinary way from seed outside. The hot bed is usually prepared now. It consists of a bed of fresh horse manure, which supplies the heat, about 18 inches deep. On this two or three inches of fine soil is placed and after the bed has heated up and then cooled down again (a matter of three or four days) the seed is sown in rows a few inches apart. The bed is protected by rough boarding along the side or heaped up earth and on top about 10 to 18 inches above the bed is placed a window sash well glassed, and sloping towards the south. When the plants have developed their second set of leaves they are thinned out and before being transplanted outside they are hardened in a cold frame which is simply a hot bed without any heating material. Government bulletins giving details of construction are available in every province. The window hot bed is simply a shallow box two or three inches deep filled with fine soil, kept well moistened. Very early radish and leaf lettuce may be planted in the hot bed and used directly from that.

Star's Garden Service

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

One of the first jobs for any regular Canadian gardener will be the ordering and initial care of nursery stock. This is a distinctly early spring job. Most of the material, which includes perennial plants, rose bushes, shrubbery, vines and fruit and ornamental trees, should be planted just as soon as the soil is fit to work. In order to avoid disappointment in securing special varieties orders should be placed early.

On receipt, if it is impossible to plant the stock should be covered with damp earth or placed in some cool moist place until moved to permanent quarters outside. In purchasing such material, authorities emphasize the importance of obtaining fresh stock and from a reliable Canadian source. Roots and stems on good nursery stock are moist and pliable and in the case of shrubs and vines the upper growth will show evidence of plenty of green live buds. Before planting it is well to trim back the upper growth somewhat, to offset any shearing off of roots and it is not advisable to allow too much blooming of the plants the first year.

When an abundance of bouquets is wanted experienced gardeners advise growing a portion of suitable annual flowers in straight rows among the vegetables or in a special cutting garden. Some well designed beds of mixed annuals are apportioned to many flowers are picked and then again there are certain things like sweet peas for instance, that have little attractive foliage but beautiful blooms. These might as well be grown behind the regular beds. Choice will largely depend upon individual preference but for those unfamiliar with the subject the following may be used as a guide:

Long stemmed—Gladioli, Larkspur, Snapdragon, Dahlias, Salpiglossis. Medium—Cosmos, Zinnia, Poppies, Scabiosa, Sweet Pea. Dwarf—Pansies, Marigolds, Nasturtiums, Calceolarias, Calceolarias.

Where a large number of early started plants either of flowers or vegetables are wanted a hot bed is advised. Smaller numbers may get the same early start by being grown in shallow boxes in a sunny window. Normally in most parts of Canada such things as tomatoes, cabbage, head lettuce, cauliflowers, etc. are so started. With flowers, petunias, asters, zinnias, marigolds are similarly treated. This early start (seed is planted in March) assures flowers or vegetable weeds ahead of their plants which are grown in the ordinary way from seed outside.

The hot bed is usually prepared now. It consists of a bed of fresh horse manure, which supplies the heat, about 18 inches deep. On this two or three inches of fine soil is placed and after the bed has heated up and then cooled down again (a matter of three or four days) the seed is sown in rows a few inches apart. The bed is protected by rough boarding along the side or heaped up earth and on top about 10 to 18 inches above the bed is placed a window sash well glassed, and sloping towards the south. When the plants have developed their second set of leaves they are thinned out and before being transplanted outside they are hardened in a cold frame which is simply a hot bed without any heating material. Government bulletins giving details of construction are available in every province. The window hot bed is simply a shallow box two or three inches deep filled with fine soil, kept well moistened. Very early radish and leaf lettuce may be planted in the hot bed and used directly from that.

Where cheap electricity is available special heating wires are used in place of manure. From March until June is usually considered the best season for pruning but there are a few specific exceptions. Most of these are the early blooming shrubs such as the Forsythia. These should be left until after blooming. Grapes must be pruned early in March to avoid excessive bleeding. Raspberries are pruned after the crop has been produced and then all the year old canes should be removed, leaving only the new main.

The main object of pruning whether it be rose bushes, fruit trees or flowering shrubs is to open up the centre of the growth so that sunshine and air may penetrate freely and also of course to produce a symmetrical plant. Naturally any dead or weak growth should be removed and also branches that rub against each other.

INCOMPATIBLES

That this food and that food are incompatible and, therefore, should not be eaten at the same meal is perhaps the most generally believed food fad of the present time.

We are told by those who attempt to convince us with their dogmatic sweeping statements rather than by scientific experiment, that proteins and carbohydrates should not be included in the same meal.

This statement is given an air of respectability by cloaking it with what appear to be scientific robes. We are told that as meat and other proteins require an acid medium for their digestion while potatoes, sugars and similar carbohydrates need an alkaline medium, when both are present, one must interfere with the digestion of the other.

Such a conclusion ignores the fact that when carbohydrates alone are eaten, there is a flow of acid digestive juices in the stomach in which the carbohydrate is thoroughly mixed. This happens regardless of whether or not there is a protein food in the stomach at the same time.

Experiments have shown that the presence of a carbohydrate food does not retard the digestion of a protein food. As a matter of fact, meat and potatoes together are just as agreeable to the stomach as they are to the palate. The stomach carries out its digestive functions in a remarkably constant manner without regard to the kinds of food present.

Some stomachs empty more quickly than do others. This happens in the presence of meat and potatoes, just as it does if meat alone is eaten. The addition of fat to the diet slows up the evacuation of the stomach.

That is why fat foods give a sense of satisfaction after eating for a longer period than do other foods.

Many people eat too much, and if they eliminate some carbohydrate foods from their diet they will likely feel better because of cutting down their food intake until it is more nearly what they need and not because their digestion is better or that proteins and carbohydrates are incompatible.

The chief danger of faddy diets is that some food essential may be left out of the food intake. We need energy foods. Just because many persons eat too much energy food in the form of carbohydrates is no reason to think that we can get along without the required amounts. A variety of foods is desirable and there is no known reason why foods of different kinds should not be consumed at the same meal.

Despite such testimony, however, many communities are slow to learn. In a letter sent out recently urging support of the Health League, Sir James Woods, Toronto, observes that a very large proportion of Canada's milk supply is still unpasteurized, with the result that the best of our foods—milk—carries with it disease and death. Again, Dr. Gordon Bates, nationally known public health authority, whom Branford audiences have had the opportunity of hearing, provides us with such eye-opening items as these: one epidemic of typhoid fever in Montreal resulted in 5,000 cases, 500 deaths and a cost to the Province of $20,000,000; the outbreak was traced to impure milk. One epidemic of septic sore throat in Chicago accounted for 10,000 cases; it was caused by one single raw milk supply going into that city. Milk-carried typhoid and para-typhoid fever, scarlet fever and septic sore throat resulted in 48 epidemics of these diseases in Canada in 28 years, causing illness among 7,812 people and taking 681 lives. This melancholy record need never have been written had people possessed enough of that much talked-about common sense to utilize one of the simple legacies handed on by modern science. Of course they will learn in time. Let us hope, on humanitarian grounds, that the time may not be long.

A DOLLAR GOES A LONG WAY
Walter Johnson did it.

There probably was more interest in this year's Washington's birthday celebration than in any previous February 22 in recent years. It was a bright idea of Congressman Sol Bloom, of New York, but that Walter Johnson, biographer, Parson Weems. The good parson only wanted to prove that the Father of his Country was a very powerful man.
There isn't any other evidence that Washington ever threw a dollar away, either across the Rappahannock or anywhere else, but the story has proved. Now Walter Johnson has promised that it could have been done. That is, provided the Rappahannock River wasn't any wider when Washington was a young man than it is now. It is 272 feet wide now at Fredericksburg, Virginia, but Mr. Bloom thinks he has evidence that it was 1320 feet wide in Washington's youth.

Mr. Bloom was also skeptical about the dollar story, because he said dollars weren't coined in America until after Washington became President.
That is true, but he forgot that "dollar" is not an American word, but
had been in use for centuries, and
that the Spanish milled dollar, or peso, was a standard coin all over the world long before the American Revolution. So it looks as if Mr.
Bloom had lost on all counts, and Walter Johnson has proved that even though he has quit big league baseball to become a farmer, he is still a mighty pitcher.

Some commentators once remarked that George Washington did a harder tougher job than any other President.
That is true, but he forgot that "dollar" is not an American word, but
had been in use for centuries, and
that the Spanish milled dollar, or
peso, was a standard coin all over
the world long before the American Revolution. So it looks as if Mr.
Bloom had lost on all counts, and
Walter Johnson has proved that even

ball to become a farmer, he is still

alty in matters merely political, but

ICY ROADWAYS REQUIRE SPECIAL ATTENTION

DRIVE SLOWLY & KEEP THE CAR IN GEAR ALL THE TIME

When sleet storms and sudden freezes transform the road surface into a skating rink, the motorist faces one of his greatest hazards.
Few ordinary motorists are yet making any wide use of abrasives to reduce the danger of ice-coated surfaces, and only special care and attention on the part of the motorist will prevent dangerous accidents. The first warning to motorists when driving on unseasoned icy surfaces.

If you are a winter motorist, a close observance of some of the fundamental rules for safe-driving under these conditions will go a long way to keep you out of hospital.
The first warning to motorists is always the same: "Drive slowly".
Nothing that follows will be of any use if this first rule is disregarded.
Keep it in mind, adhere to it, and you do chance to be involved in a minor mishap you should never be responsible for any serious accident.

When driving on icy roads, it is well to forget the clutch. At all times the car should be kept in gear, and if obeying the first rule the motorist will have no difficulty in changing into low gear for slowing down. Free-wheeling should not be used when driving on slippery surfaces, and even when braking, the gears should not be disengaged until the car has practically stopped.

Great care should be taken when using the brakes. Present-day brakes are so severe and act so quickly that their tendency is often to skid the car around and start it skidding.
Apply the brakes gently. Easing them off and on will bring better results than "one severe push. When possible, however, it is better to use the gears rather than the brakes for slowing down.

Skidding is so often encountered
on slippery surfaces that it is almost impossible to avoid this danger. Three fundamental rules for skidding will offset a good deal of the danger of this most disturbing of car accidents. Under no circumstances use the brakes. Keep the car in gear.

Turn toward the skid. That is, if it is a left skid, turn the front wheels left, in a right skid, turn the front wheels right.

For starting in slippery weather,
it is better to use second gear. Let the clutch in slowly.

On all but the most gradual slopes second gear should be used both in ascending and descending. On the steepest slopes use low gear. The brakes should not be used to slow
the car down when descending a hill.
Let the engine slow the car down.

Equipment is a very important factor for safe winter driving. Most motorists use chains in the winter time, but in districts where the snowfall is light, many have found it possible to drive without them. It is, however, only in importance to slow
driving as a safety factor are tires.

They are the final link between the car and the road. To prevent skidding, the tread must be in good condition. A tire worn smooth will travel 75 per cent slower and neither will I.
Second, only in importance to slow
driving as a safety factor are tires.

Remember that from now until the end of winter, the icy road constitutes one of your gravest hazards.
Sanded highways can be used with confidence, but on slippery surfaces drive slowly and carefully and use your head!

LENT

A time of self-denial and of praise.
A time of calmer thought.
And some slight abridgement of the ways.

For selfish purpose wrought.
For forty days of self a little less
And of our own desires.

And more concern about the inner dress
The soul of man requires.

For, forty days to prove the spirit's strength
By shunning pleasing things.

Fasting the flesh for forty days full length
For the sweet pride this brings.

Is this enough? God's favor to deserve?
Is this the aim of Lent?

Should man his own soul struggle to preserve
And with that be content?

Or rather should he not for forty days
More helpful try to be.

And following the Master, seek His praise
By serving as He did?

Suppose for forty days in doing good
Seek strength and time were spent Seeking His dream of human brotherhood.

Would that be keeping Lent?

Alps here of snow, the Olympic Winter Games of 1936, promoted by Germany, were a triumphant success from every point of view. More than 1000 athletes took part from 28 different countries, and during 11 days 1,000,000 spectators watched them in pulse-stirring competition. Weather conditions were good. The implication of the standing to show the relative success of national sides is not undoubtedly because it is felt that such an assessment is inconsonant with Olympic ideals. The accompanying list, however, shows how the countries fared in the matter of first,

medals respectively.

HOW KING GEORGE LOATHED ORIENTATION

King George loathed orientation and publicity where his private activities were concerned. The late Lord Ponsonby, Keeper of the Privy Purse, told a story only five days before his death, which well illustrates this trait.

A certain farm-manager on one of the royal farms bought a bull at a very high price. It stood the board at all agricultural shows. Finally it was sold at an even higher price.
The King said nothing until the animal had been sold at a good profit.

The farm-manager agreed. But he added, "The bull had won many prizes and had been sold at a good profit. I understand this," the King replied, "I farm as an ordinary farmer and exhibit my beasts in competition with other farmers. They can't pay high prizes and neither will I.
As for winning prizes by paying large sums for beasts, any Hoggsmeiter can do that. I won't."

Lawyers earn a living by the sweat of their browbeating.—James Humecker.

"I visit my friends occasionally," remarked the book lover, "just to look over my library."

A judge who was asked to ban a book read that it was not obscene.
The author is expected to appeal.—

The Editor,
Dear Sir—The editing spectacle
was recently witnessed in the Legislature of members denying that $25 dividends were ever promised to anyone; also Mr. Armstrong has stated that the $25 monthly dividends were merely a figure of speech. If monthly dividends had not been promised, Social Credit would not have elected enough members to form a cavalry guard. This present attitude of some of the M.L.A.'s is a disgrace to their former attitude, and implies doubt on their part that any such pledge can be implemented.

Many people in their financial adversity, vote for Social Credit, because they believe the Government was an economic messiah—they will now have to receive "judgment" on that point. A party cannot be held of all S.C. members so that their statements can be made to synchronize with one another.

The so-called perfect circle
of more credit—more goods, more credit
more goods—ad libitum, simply resolves itself into an inviolate spiral, or an economic pyramid, poised on its apex. If we start, to build a skyscraper, and make each succeeding floor larger in area than the preceding one, how far do we get before the structure topples over. We do not need more credit, we need less credit and more cash.

Every 100 per cent Social Credit
M.L.A. will not be glad to accept their seasonal indemnities in the form of basic dividends—if any are unwilling they can be expelled
from the party.

I believe the economic salvation of Alberta lies in the capitalization of our mineral wealth, particularly gold. It would help the unemployed, the business people, and take care of provincial financing. Although it would not usher in the millennium it would help clear up the burden of debt.

Yours truly,
E. NORRIS.

SYDENHAM

Mrs. Church, sr., Mr. and Mrs. F. Church and Amos, were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinghorn.

Mr. F. Plust spent a few days in Edmonton over the week-end.

Mr. F. Seabrook was a dinner guest on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Church.

Many of the farmers are seen on the roads, busy hauling their seed grain and feed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Peterson were visiting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Croteau.

The school was closed on Thursday, while workmen made necessary repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Croteau spent a pleasant evening on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Bransard.

Mr. H. Kilby is the owner of a new well on his farm, which was drilled by Mr. T. Schick.

HEATH

On Friday evening a number of friends gathered at the home of Miss Gladys Muckford for a surprise party in honor of her birthday. A pleasant evening was spent at games and singing followed by a midnight lunch served by the ladies. Among those present were Alberta and Alma Patvin, Violet Smith, Olga Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. M. Herbert, sr., Miss G. Hough, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, John Smith, Bill Smith, Henry and Edward Potvin, Adelard Touchette, Bobby Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. P. Herbert and Mrs. Herbert, sr.

Mrs. Arthur Patterson has been a recent victim of the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McLeod are planning to leave Heath and make their home in British Columbia where it is hoped the climatic conditions will be better suited to Mr. McLeod's health.

Recent warm weather is having its effect on the roads, which are becoming more and more difficult for the heavy loads of feed that seem to compose the bulk of the road traffic lately.

Mr. Patrick Herbert has scored 14 coyotes for his winter's catch this year. This still seems to be the record in the district.

With the advent of warmer weather church services have been resumed at Heath Anglican Church with the Reverend Anderson as pastor.

EDGERTON

Miss Margaret Ford returned home Wednesday after being the guest of Miss Jessie Sawyer.

Mr. E. Russell of Ribstone, visited with his family Tuesday night.

A crowd of Edgerton young people attended the dance at Bloomington, Friday evening and report a good time.

Rev. T. E. Armstrong was a visitor in town Saturday and met the official board of the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Challenger returned from the coast a week ago Friday.

The C.G.I.T. Concert which will be presented in the Pawley Hall Saturday, March 21st, will take the form of a radio broadcast.

The choir of the United Church are preparing a religious play, "Into Thy Kingdom," which they plan to present Palm Sunday, April 5th.

Sunday evening, Rev. Caldwell's address at the United Church, was based on poems he had written. The hymns and the solo, which was sung by Mrs. T. Wilson, were also of his composition.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

It was announced today that the Wood-Wainwright Company which operates a large agricultural concern north and west of town will seed about 3,000 acres of land this coming season. Last year no less than 90,000 bushels of grain were harvested and shipped from this area and even greater returns are anticipated this year. Mr. W. B. Moffat is in charge of the farm.

Local tag day held on Saturday last, was a huge success for the veterans. Prizes for those who collected the most money went to Misses Helen Shirley, Sophie Kenty, and Vera Hodgkins.

Word was received in town that one of our local boys in the person of Jerry McLeod (of the 49th battalion) was injured over seas and is now suffering from a bad concussion.

Mr. Elvin Ross was the winner of the competition put on by the Star for the one who could find the most mistakes in the advertising columns of this paper.

At the annual meeting of the Wainwright Conservative Association held on Saturday, the following officers were elected: Pres., Mr. M. Green; vice-pres., Mr. W. E. Mills; sec-treas., Mr. W. Moffat.

No less than fifty men of the Wainwright detachment of the 151st battalion have received furlough to help put in the crop in this district. This is greatly appreciated by the local farmers as they are very short handed.

An old-fashioned pork and bean supper was held in the Presbyterian church on Friday night and the fact that beans were at a premium the next day speaks well for the success of the function and the bean capacity of the huge crowd.

D. W. Hanson, a local townsman, has donated a bugle to the boys of the 151st battalion in response to the efforts made, by the local folks to collect money to purchase instruments for their use.

Prohibition will go into force in Ontario before the close of the summer and stay in till the end of the war. It was announced last week. On September 15th, 1916, every hotel bar and liquor shop will cease the sale of intoxicating liquors.

A letter written in the trenches of France was received from Allan

GREENSHIELDS

A large crowd attended the card party and dance Friday evening in the community hall. The prize winners at cards were: Ladies 1st, Mrs. H. P. Jackson; cons, Mrs. H. Merrick; gents 1st, Mr. Walter Jackson; cons, Mr. George Reid.

The Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting Wednesday last at the home of Mrs. W. Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jackson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Carl on Sunday.

Miss Marcella Pater visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Haywood during the week-end.

The Young People's Club will hold their regular meeting Friday, March 20th.

The U.F.W.A. will hold their regular meeting the first Thursday in April. The topic for discussion will be "Beautifying the Home." All ladies are cordially invited.

Mrs. H. Merrick and Doreen are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. H. Mills.

Newport, a local 49th battalion man. He states that the weather has been fine and he is well cared for in all ways, and despite the fact that shells are pouring in on them most of the time, they are having a real good time.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. A. Harden and children have returned from a visit in the East. She reports that she is glad to be back in this part of the country after the terrible storms she experienced in the East.

The Board of Trade are working hard to put over a big publicity drive. Booklets and pamphlets are being printed showing all the desirable qualities of this district.

Mr. Ed Turner has returned from the Coast where he has been for the past several months.

Mr. Tom Carruthers, agent for the Bawit Elevator Company had a narrow escape from serious injury when a can of gasoline became ignited in his office and exploded in his face when he attempted to throw it out wide. Little damage was done to the office but his face and hair were badly burned.

The Wainwright Gas Company plans to start the construction of the transmission line from the well at Fabyan into town as soon as the weather permits. In addition to supplying gas for industrial purposes, the company has had inquiries for its use as a fuel also.

A contract was drawn up with the C.N.R. whereby it has agreed to take the fuel oil output from the local refinery for use in its engines on the mountain division. It is felt that this will greatly stimulate the development of the Wainwright field.

Mrs. W. Hetherington of the Auburnville district has returned after spending a holiday in her old home in Quebec.

In a speech before the Edmonton Automobile Association last week Mr. J. R. Love stressed the very urgent need of a trans-Canada highway which will pass through Wainwright. The Association promised to look into the matter immediately and it is hoped that some step will be taken toward this end very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Telford, who have been holidaying at the Coast for the past several weeks have now returned to their home.

ASPEN

The play "Here Comes Charlie" staged in the Bloomington hall, Friday evening, March 13th, was well worth seeing. Much credit goes to the actresses who played their parts so well. After lunch a dance followed and the Krimball boys furnished the music.

Mr. Willard Bushey is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bushey.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Siver on the birth of a daughter.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Wainwright is feeling ill these days. We wish him better health.

TRAFALGAR

Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Heath, spent a few days visiting with their daughters, Mrs. G. Birtles and Mrs. H. Barnett.

Mr. Emmett Smith, who has been near Onaway all winter, has returned to commence Spring work on his farm.

Mrs. Win Chynoweth is the guest of Mrs. J. Murray for a few days.

Miss Marion Baker arrived on Saturday to spend a month with her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Baker. She expects to re-enter training at the Misericordia Hospital in Edmonton about the middle of April.

After spending a short time with Mrs. J. Murray, Miss Eva Chynoweth has returned home.

Mr. Walter Gunn visited friends in the district over the week-end.

PASSCHENDALE

The Sew and So Club put on a St. Patrick's whist drive at the Passchendale school on Friday, March 13th. Prizes went to: Ladies 1st, Mrs. G. Caron; cons, Miss Doris Anderson; gents 1st, Mr. Tony Kehoe; cons, Mr. Walter Thompson. After cards were over a dance was enjoyed with Messrs. Aldous Kent and Fred Brimacombe supplying the music.

The Passchendale school has been closed for the past week as Miss Margaret Steel has been ill with a severe cold.

PROVINCE TO BAN NEW COAL MINES

All present coal mines in Alberta are to be licensed by the provincial government and no new leases or permits will be issued for some time in the future, it was announced Friday by Hon. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines.

These plans, he noted, implement two of the recommendations contained in the report of Sir Montague Barlow, British mining expert and former British minister of labor, who as a one-man royal commission conducted an investigation into Alberta's coal mining situation last year. Fees to be charged have not been settled yet, although it is indicated that they will be high enough to offset partially the loss of revenue through stoppage of leases.

Only mines to be exempt from the ban on new operations, Mr. Ross said, would be "country bank" workings—small mines in isolated districts operated only for "local" use.

The value of a fertilizer to your land, and the assured extra returns which are to be derived from such, is ably proved in the statements of thousands of prominent and successful farmers all over Alberta.

Among those who go on record as to the advisability of this assisting nature, the following comments are noteworthy.

HAROLD McLAUGHLIN, farmer, Spruce Grove: "After 7 years' experience with commercial fertilizer, I am convinced that its use is bound to be beneficial to any permanent system of farming. It tends to maintain soil fertility, helps to control weeds and aids the crop in resisting diseases and adverse weather conditions."

CYRIL C. GILLES, farmer, South Edmonton: "First of all good seed. Then well-prepared land. I believe in the use of commercial fertilizer."

CHARLES ELLET, master farmer, South Edmonton: "It's going to be a hard job to get good seed wheat this year; it's very scarce. Well prepared land and use of commercial fertilizer will lead to good crops."

RALPH F. BLACKMER, farm lands, H. M. E. Evans & Co.: "Good seed, proper cultivation and commercial fertilizer lead to larger yields and better quality wheat which, in the end, produces profits. During the last few years I have found that the use of commercial fertilizer is of estimable benefit in the practice of good farming."

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT

Joan was dead, but things did not end there. He must rouse Dick Charlton, who was obviously the person to handle this. A knock on his door brought Dick out, his book still in his hand.

"Come quick, Charlton," said Macduff. "Joan Foster is dead. She jumped into the pool. It was drained, for landing tomorrow."

For once in his life, words tumbled from Macduff's lips without deliberation. His eyes were bloodshot, behind the impersonal glare of his spectacles. Dick went white and caught at his arm. Without a word he followed Macduff across the corridor and passed from brilliant light into the darkness of the pool. Briefly he hung over the edge, then covered his face with his hand. Macduff stretched out an arm and gripped him round the shoulders.

"It's all right, old man," he said, realizing that the girl had meant something in Charlton's life. "It would have been hell for her, had she lived."

"She came to my room tonight. I shut the door in her face." The words were squeezed through Dick's closed teeth. He pulled himself together. He was the chief mourner. Most regret at once to Captain Barclay," he said, automatically.

Once more Dick looked at Joan.

Macduff went down to his cabin,

which was as austere as when he had sailed. He had spurned the spears of Borneo, the leopard skins of Darjeeling,

the mandarin robes of China, and was landing empty-handed. He turned on all the lights, to shake off the feeling that he had been staring for hours into a darkened cave. The sea rolled smoothly under the porthole,

but the night was black and moonless. With an effort he forced the dead girl out of his thoughts. In a few hours now he would be home.

He would be home. He would be on her way back to England as he was reaching home. Would her heart strain the strain of her meeting with Wynant. Would the cad consider her health in his anxiety to shake her off,

now that he had met, a seventeen-

year-old woman who wanted to marry?

Stranger, stranger, strange, thought

Macduff for the hundredth time, that a woman like Angela should love a man like Wynant! And Jenny would also! Macduff, wild enough to have squeezed himself out through the porthole for love, Macduff got up and examined the brass ring. How in hell had she managed to do it? That was something he never would be able to understand. He'd see how far he could push himself through,

and what the water was like from a porthole at night. Wonders if her body was still being rocked on the tides.

He began to undress, hanging his tie

on the rack, folding his trousers carefully, putting his coat on a hanger.

Every move took time. At last he donned his striped pajamas and pulled down the covers of his bed.

Climbing between the sheets, he lay on his side, smoking and thinking. Tomorrow they would land.

Damned nuisance, customs and all that bother! Angela wouldn't be there, but on her way to England.

How strangely Joan's face had flashed in the green light! The only thing about her that had seemed alive. Macduff reached out for his bottle and poured himself a wee doch-an-dorrah. He downed it straight and put out the lights, but his pipe still glowed in the dark. Angela was an untrustworthy man. He felt at times that life was superb

and that he could write much better if she were always near him.

Without any talk, she inspired a man to effort. The glow of his pipe grew feeble. At last he banged it out on the washstand, sighed and settled himself for sleep. He could hear a grinding behind his head. She made the anchor chain he had heard so often lately, and always for new ports, new scenes, new faces. The engines were in reverse; the boat was swinging around. They must be at Quarantine! That meant home. They would be there for the rest of the night. Macduff rolled over to the wall. The throbbing ceased at last,

and stillness descended on the ship,

broken by the laughter and cries of the last night revellers. Their voices drowned before by the pounding sound of the boat in the rest of the night. The flying

steps of excited girls could be heard along the corridors. Everything seemed extraordinarily clear, now that the ship had anchored. Macduff felt as if he had emerged from the Cave of the Winds. At last he fell asleep.

Angela's name was on his lips

when he wakened five hours later,

looking as hard as a rock, sober and fresh. His first thought was, "It's saying good-bye." Then he remembered Joan, with a catch of his breath. Gently! He was sorry for Charlton. When his steward came with his coffee, he cursed him because it was cold. Dressing himself with care, he selected the dark green tie that Angela had helped him to buy in Manila. He walked along the corridor and out on the deck to find that they were moving slowly up the bay in the haze of the early morning.

The shore and the water seemed deadly dull after the sharp contrasts of the tropics. There was nothing in the neutral landscape to excite the eye until the skyscrapers came into view. The passengers did not look like themselves this morning, for they were all togged out in their city clothes. The celebrants of the night before were slowly coming to life,

feeling sick and depressed. Couples who would soon be parted hung together at the rail, watching the encroaching shore line with dismay.

One youth was humbly trying to say good-bye to a girl whom he now adored. Soon he would be meeting his bride of a year, and their baby, born

a month ago. His hand plucked nervously at his companion's coat. Their hands were telling the story, but body care. Angela was there—cool, composed, in a black tailored costume and a small black hat, with a fur around her shoulders. Her face was drained of colour. As usual, she had dreamed through the night of Jenny's face and her thin, pale hands clutching at the water. It dawned on Macduff that none of them knew about Joan, not even Angela. He moved over towards her.

"Good-morning, Angela."

"Macduff, I'm glad to see you. I was afraid you had been killed. I wanted you to watch the skyline with me. It's thrilling."

"I'm sorry to see it," said Macduff,

gloomily.

"Not really."

"Yes, really."

"They stood close together and watched the buildings swimming in to view—tall grey spires, glittering circles—the boat, Angela, cherry blossoms, the mists of Darjeeling,

the elephants at Kandy, Johnny and Patty, Jenny squeezing her way into the China Sea, from crushed at the bottom of the tank. Angela! He covered his face with his hands to ward off the spectres that haunted him now. Macduff was stung at last to suffering; alive as he had never been alive before. This then, was the way that Angela had felt about

Love, and Jenny about Rumford, and Joan about Dick. It was easier to understand things now.

In desperation he went to the window and looked out at Gramercy

Park, a sight that had often soothed him in years gone by. A long, deep while he stopped his brooding. He would be Angela's ship sailing at noon. He moved to the door. Too late now! She would be gone. He sank wearily on his ruined chair, and in a blinding flash Macduff knew that there could be no life for him now

without Angela.

his eye turned into hers.

"Angela," he said, "I—well, good-

back on her.

The gangplank was down. He walk-

Johnny's father catch her hands and Patty's plump face turned up at

"Good-bye and good luck," Mac-

his way to the letter M in the cus-

a girl waiting for Dick—except at

YOU CAN'T STAY WHERE YOU ARE

YOU turn through a kodak album and smile at old-style clothes. Skirts cluttering the ankles . . . hats perched high up on hair . . . wasp waists . . . awkward sleeves—odd how taste has changed!

Yet day by day your taste changes in all you wear and do. You don't like the same books, enjoy the same movies, choose the same underwear, prefer the same soap you did a short while ago. You are so used to the better, you wonder why you liked the old. Advertisements make you know the better as soon as it's proved to be better. They tell of good things accepted as good taste in the best homes. The hosiery, glass-curtains, lighting fixtures other moderns use; why their use is preferred. Advertisements influence so many around you, sooner or later you'll feel the change. Even if you never read an advertisement, you'll use in time some of the conveniences which advertisements urge you to use today. Advertisements form a tide of taste that sweeps you forward; you can't stand still. Since you'll enjoy what they advertise anyway, why not begin enjoying now?

This Week in Washington

With the new farm aid bill out of the way Congress is trying to get down to a working schedule that will let its members get away before the political conventions. A dozen or so highly controversial proposals, however, are bound to come up for discussion, and nobody can guess very accurately as yet what the outcome is going to be.

Senator Robinson, the Administration's leader in the Upper House, has announced that there are seven measures which he calls "live" bills whose consideration has been agreed upon by the Senate leaders. One of them is going to stir up a lot of debate. That is the rural electrification bill.

There probably will be even more excitement when the bill to regulate chain stores gets on the floor. This would prohibit producers and distributors of merchandise from selling cheaper to the chain stores than they do to individual retailers. It is one of Senator Robinson's pet, with Senator Pittman actively interested. It will meet with strong opposition not only from the chains and from manufacturers, but from consumer groups and from newspapers. It has about an even chance of enactment as things look now.

Four "Live" Measures
The Coolidge bill to tighten the barriers against undesirable aliens and make their deportation easier is on Senator Robinson's list. It has a good chance. The other four "live" measures, as the Senate leader sees them, are the Copper stockyards regulation bill, Senator Gore's Panama toll bill, Senator Fletcher's bill to increase the capital of the Commercial Credit Corporation to aid the marketing of agricultural products and another Fletcher bill exempting from taxation all securities of banks held by the RFC.

Since the passage of the bonus bill is being heard of the so-called "pressure groups" and their influence on legislation. "Pressure group" is just a fancy word for lobbyist. It does not imply bribery, necessarily, but the pressure groups work effectively upon the fears of members of Congress that they will not be re-elected if they don't give these groups what they demand.

A short time ago one of the strongest pressure groups was the currency inflation bloc. It seems to be losing influence and its particular measure, the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, looks to have a slim chance. The silver bloc, which was a very strong pressure group a year ago, is not so strong now.

Coughlin and Thompson

Father Coughlin, who has been the spearhead of inflation, is not the influential figure that he formerly was. He was a powerful influence before the extent of his following was known. Now Congressmen generally pooch-pooch the notion that he is actually able to influence any important body of voters, sufficiently concentrated in particular states or districts to influence the election of particular Congressmen or Senators. The Townsend old-age pension bloc is a case in point. Outside of a few spots on the map its strength is not yet sufficiently concentrated, or at least so the leaders in Congress believe. The impending Congressional investigation into the Townsend movement is expected to disclose its real strength. But it will have the effect of postponing any possible action along Townsend plan lines until next session, if ever.

One of the shrewdest political observers here remarked the other day that the one pressure group which seems to be missing is the "economy bloc." Congress wants to keep on spending money, but shies like a frightened colt from the shadow of tax projects necessary to provide the money to spend. The boys on Capitol Hill all know that they have got to enact some new tax measures this session, and how they dread it. Congress has to appropriate a lot more cash for direct relief on top of WPA. The strongest pressure group of all is perhaps the one composed of governors of states and mayors of cities who insist that they cannot take care of the destitute without Federal aid after April 1, when direct Federal relief theoretically comes to an end.

Distribution of Federal funds through relief agencies, public works, the bonus and farm relief checks is expected to keep retail business humming until after election. And shrewd observers are pointing out that, whichever way the election goes general business will improve rapidly.

Presidential Talk

Discussion of Republican Presidential candidates is on every tongue in Washington. Governor Landon's apparent popular lead steadily increases. Whether he is too far out in front is being debated by his friends and his opponents. It is pointed out that four years ago, in February, Franklin D. Roosevelt was away out in front of all the contenders for the Democratic nomination, and he was the party's nominee. It is doubtful, however, whether Governor Landon has at his command the well-organized machinery for gathering delegates which Mr. Roosevelt had at that time.

Four out of five of the professional political observers here are now saying that the Republican nominee will be "either Landon or a dark horse." Talk about a "dark horse" usually brings up the suggestion of Justice Roberts of the Supreme Court. Senator Vandenberg seems to be emerging from the dark-horse class into that of a regular contender.

THE BAY GRAIN ROUTE

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Railways, says he hopes to see the day when 25 million bushels a season will go out from Churchill, terminus of the Hudson Bay railway, and when that railway will pay a fair rate on its capital investment. However Churchill's growth as a grain port is very slow and unsatisfactory. But four million bushels moved through it in 1934 and 3½ million bushels in 1935 when eight ships sailed from it.

It is contended by supporters of the Bay routes that one of the handicaps of the Port lies in high insurance on ships. A ship from Churchill pays some $6,000 insurance premium more on a trip to Churchill than it would if it went to Montreal.

Incidentally, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool has been the one big shipper from Churchill, its object being to contribute its share in developing Canada's baby grain port.

Canada has paid $2,823,245,406 in interest on the national debt since confederation, or nearly as much as the debt of the Dominion today.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who more than any other woman in the country is credited with bringing about the freedom and rights which modern women enjoy, may be the first to receive a medal under pending legislation in Congress for commemorative medals.

When Mrs. Catt was recently in Washington, as a leading figure at the Eleventh Annual Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, President Roosevelt remembered that it was also the fiftieth anniversary of her entrance into suffrage work. He received her in his office, presented her with a letter praising her career, and approved the idea of a medal being struck off for her golden jubilee.

The President of Wellesley College, Dr. Ellen Flitz Pendleton, has announced that she will retire next June. Miss Pendleton, who is an apostle of world peace and an internationalist as well as an educator has been associated with Wellesley College for fifty-four years.

A noted French publisher, Mme. Paul Dupey of Paris, who was the former Helen Brown of New York and Chicago has been made a Commander of the Legion of Honor in France. Mme. Dupey is the owner of a chain of French newspapers.

Miss Dorothy Kenyon, New York lawyer, one time suffrage worker, has been appointed First Deputy Commissioner of Licenses, for the City of New York.

Eighty year old Mrs. Edward McDowell, widow of the famous composer, is making a gallant effort to aid the colony which her husband established for creative artists at Peterborough, N.H. Recently she gave 14 concerts in 28 days to raise funds for the Colony. She has played in 450 American cities during the course of her musical career.

Two young Peruvian artists, Elena and Victoria Izcue, who have been studying at the Beaux Arts in Paris, are responsible for the Vogue of Inca designs for Modern fabrics which has swept this country. They recently exhibited their modern art in New York. It is based on 1500 year old designs.

CHARLES RUGGLES IN "PEOPLE WILL TALK"

On the first three nights of next week, a fast-moving comedy drama with your favorite team of actors, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, will be showing at the theatre.

Happy married, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton have a problem on their hands. Married daughter Peggy, having quarrelled with husband Bill, comes home to mother. To show the youngsters the futility of such antics, Henry and Clarice plan to fake a quarrel of their own, the intensity of which will scare the youngsters into sense. However, as Henry leaves the house, he innocently becomes involved with Doris, the vampire in Peggy's and Bill's life. Gossip reaching Clarice's ears, she gets the impression that friend hubby is pulling a fast one and as Bill seems to be the only family friend that Henry has left Peggy comes to think that her husband is taking an abetting father in his philandering.

As a comedy wrestling match is tossed in to heighten the hilarity, the peace-making tables are turned. Bill frames a stunt whereby Henry, by proving himself a super-hero, restores himself to Clarice's good graces, and with Peggy's and Bill's reconciliation, every one lives happy ever after.

This is a picture that will help drive away your blues. It shows at the local theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 23rd, 24th and 25th.

Goose Woman . . .

Beginning next week . . . The Goose Woman by Rex Beach. One of the finest short novels by this celebrated author. A powerful, fast-moving mystery story that grips your interest and never lets you down. The tense, dramatic story of love and hate, understanding and envy. A mother's hatred for her own son, and the final test that brings the story to a climax. There's not a dull paragraph in it. The Goose Woman is a story you'll want to read, and one we are sure you'll enjoy from beginning to end. First instalment next week.
